

The Philadelphia Doctors Chamber Orchestra

The Philadelphia Doctors Chamber Orchestra is a nonprofit organization made up of approximately 40 volunteer musicians. Our mission is to present and perpetuate symphonic music for the community. The orchestra has been active for thirty years and has performed over 80 concerts, including 10 premiers. We have performed in over 20 venues including the Kimmel Center and the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C and also in universities, concert halls, churches and hospitals throughout the Delaware Valley.

The orchestra was founded and is conducted by Dr. Fawzi Habboushe, who is a general and thoracic surgeon. Many of the original members were in the medical profession. Our current membership reflects many diverse educational and professional backgrounds, all brought together by a love of music.

The orchestra welcomes musicians of various playing levels who can read music and will commit to attending weekly rehearsals.

DONATIONS

The Philadelphia Doctors Chamber Orchestra relies upon contributions from patrons, and the generosity of its conductor and its devoted musicians for support.

We are a not-for-profit, 501(c)(3) corporation

Our concerts are free, but donations are appreciated.

Suggested donation: $10
